

Air-assisted aid for supine transfers makes a difference!

We wanted to find out what Swedish healthcare professionals thought about an air-assisted device for supine transfers.

Supine transfers represent a significant challenge in healthcare and are the most common cause of joint and muscle pain in the back and shoulders among healthcare workers. Managing supine transfers of heavier patients usually requires 4-6 carers, further complicating the care situation.

When we introduced the HoverMatt SPU air-assisted transfer mattress in Sweden, we wanted to find out what Swedish healthcare professionals thought of an air-assisted aid for supine transfers. We conducted tests at 10 different hospitals where HoverMatt SPU was used for supine transfers in different patient groups, giving staff the opportunity to evaluate the results.

On the next page we present some results and valuable insights from staff evaluations.

See the video to follow the transfer mattress, HoverMatt SPU, through the entire care chain - from the ambulance to the emergency room, X-ray and on to the ward.
